

Richard K. Fullmer, CFA

SENIOR PORTFOLIO STRATEGIST
RUSSELL INVESTMENT GROUP

B.A., Business Information Systems, Washington State University, 1983
CFA Charterholder, CFA Institute, 1995
M.S., Banking and Financial Management, Boston University, 2005

Richard Fullmer is a senior portfolio strategist at Russell Investment Group where he designs and develops investment and annuitization strategies, principally for the retirement market. This includes analysis of asset allocation, withdrawal rates, longevity, inflation, liquidity, and other financial risks. Richard joined Russell in 2004.

Prior to joining Russell, Richard held a variety of product development and strategic planning roles at Fidelity Investments, and prior to that worked for SAFECO Insurance Company as a quantitative analyst.

Richard is chairman of the Methodologies Committee for the Retirement Income Industry Association and is a member of the CFA Institute, Boston Society of Financial Analysts, and Seattle Society of Financial Analysts.