Chris Raham, FSA, MAAA

Chris is a Senior Actuarial Advisor in the Insurance and Actuarial Advisory Services practice of Ernst & Young, and has more than fourteen years of experience serving the financial services industry.

Leader of the firm's Retirement Income practice, Mr. Raham is responsible for the delivery of the firm's actuarial services aimed at institutions seeking a competitive advantage in the retirement distribution market place. Primary services include risk assessments of retirement planning tools, product allocation optimization, product development and selection, third-party independent whitepaper analysis, value demonstrations, and planning tool development.

A frequent contributor in both mainstream and industry publications, Chris has recently appeared in SmartMoney, Best's Review, and National Underwriter.

Recent presentations at industry events include, "Recognizing Retirement Risk in Planning Tools" at the 2007 Retirement Income Industry Association meeting, and "Navigating the Road to Retirement" at the 2008 Retirement and Savings meeting of the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association.

Mr. Raham holds a Bachelor of Science in Actuarial Science from the University of Calgary in Canada. He is a Fellow of the Society of Actuaries, serves on the Actuary of the Future Section Council, and is a Member of the American Academy of Actuaries.